About Alula ...

Alula provides differentiated security, automation and smart property solutions that help professional alarm dealers and integrators grow their business more profitably.

Founded in 2017, Alula was formed when two leading technology providers - IPDatatel and Resolution Products - joined forces.

Alula's award-winning products and services are uniquely designed to be easy to learn, fast to install and simple to operate. From our wireless security and automation system to our universal alarm panel communicator; and from our interactive mobile app to our robust dealer portal, complete with remote system diagnostics, dynamic app configuration and system usage reports, Alula's solutions cover a broad range of applications and deliver a consistent system management experience. Our technology-rich solutions enable dealers and integrators to cover a broad range of applications, from basic security packages to premium installations equipped with video and automation. We take pride in helping our dealer partners look good with services and materials that put their brand front and center. Wherever your security needs take you, Alula has solutions that can help.
