MAP Development

Why?

Continua of Care need a Coordinated Entry assessment that is:

- Evidence based (documented)
- Equitable
- Frequently validated
- Easy to implement
- Free to use

How?

The MAP was developed in a year-long collaboration between:

- Montana Statewide Continuum of Care
 - Coordinated Entry leadership from 7 communities
 - Case managers and assessors from across the state
 - People with lived experience
 - Including the MT Youth Action Board
- John P Barile, PhD (author) & Anna S. Pruitt, PhD (University of Hawai'i at Mānoa)
- Pathways Community Network Institute

Who?

The MAP is available to all Continua of Care, at no cost

- Currently implemented in Montana, Illinois and Tennessee
- Available this year to all WellSky Human Services (ServicePoint) HMIS users
- Free for any HMIS vendor to incorporate

Components of an Effective CES Assessment

Uses validated measures

- Allows for comparison to national-level data
- Measurement invariance and can reduce racial bias found in other CES tools
- Can be designed to reduce variation in client scores and be appropriate for all ages and demographics
- Can be used to predict successful placements and outcomes

Matches people to services

- Matching people to services—as opposed to prioritizing solely based on vulnerability—based on a wholistic range of criteria can lead to more appropriate housing placement more quickly which can reduce recidivism
 - Clients with high vulnerability and prioritized for PSH may actually not be able to live independently and need a different housing placement
 - Consideration of more wholistic factors that impact housing and health needs can lead to more appropriate housing that uniquely matches client needs.

Considers client choice

Considering client choice in the CES assessment tool

- may reduce numbers of failed referrals, particularly client refused referrals
- may increase housing placement satisfaction and reduce recidivism if clients are happy with their placement and feel they had a voice in it
- will lead to increased client autonomy that is in line with Housing First philosophy

Limitations

- Montana data has lower representation of individuals identifying as Black, African, or African American and higher rates of individuals identifying as American Indian, Alaska Native, or Indigenous groups.
- Not enough data to adequately report on individuals that do not identify as male or female
- MAP uses items that are strongly correlated with age, which may be inappropriate for younger folks.

Next Steps

- Analysis of longitudinal data to see if MAP scores predict success in housing placements.
- Continue to search for appropriate questions appropriate for all ages, including youth.

Benefits

- Valid and reliable way to assess needs, preferences, and vulnerability
- Use of items & supplemental modules that can be used beyond prioritization
- Flexible and adaptable
 - Short core components with supplemental modules
 - Can be tailored to specific CoC needs and contexts
- Already built into some HMIS platforms
- Free & we can provide TA
