HOUSING TRAINING & TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE PROJECT

The Freedom Network Training Institute is the training and technical assistance arm of Freedom Network USA (FNUSA), the nation's largest alliance of experienced advocates advancing a human-rights based approach to human trafficking in the United States. FNUSA believes that empowering survivors with choices and support leads to transformative meaningful change. To learn more about the Training Institute, please visit freedomnetworkusa.org/training.

TRAINING & TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE

The Housing Training and Technical Assistance Project provides professionals dynamic training and resources on housing options for survivors of human trafficking. The training, tools, and resources will support anti-trafficking service providers in accessing appropriate emergency, transitional, and long-term housing options for their clients. The project includes a wide array of expert consultants, including a Survivor Advisory Panel, that support the creation and delivery of training.

RESOURCE LIBRARY

FNTI's Resource Library houses fact sheets, videos, promising practices, and practical tools on housing options. These materials will familiarize providers with housing programs, eligibility requirements, and practical tips. Each resource has been developed by a team of subject matter experts and survivors to ensure practical application that is informed by lived experience.

WEB-BASED TRAINING

FNTI conducts live interactive webinars that address common challenges in housing and offer practical solutions. Webinars provide information and insight to service providers, and identify links between anti-trafficking programs and housing services. Webinars will be recorded and will be made available in the Resource Library.
